Just Thinking...

By DR. C. H. BOLTON

RELIGION BY PROXY

There are many things in life where one person can speak or vote for somebody else. If the charter of an institution provides for it, an absent member of the Board may delegate another member to cast his vote for him. In this way an absent member may be considered "present by proxy." While this may work in business, it will not work in religion.

We have to deal with the Lord individually and personally. A wife's religion will not be enough for both herself and her husband. She may speak for both of them on some things, but religion is not one of them.

We have to believe for ourselves. One person cannot believe for another. Nor does one person have enough faith to save two people. The faith of a wife may influence her husband to believe, but he must do it for himself.

Nor will we be able to do enough work for two people. All I can do, all the time I am able to do it, is just my part; any thing short of that is not all I should do.

I must believe,
I must work,
I must hope

for myself and not count on a religion by proxy.

APPRECIATION

I want to express to Miss Kay Jernigan my sincere thanks for her work with our Cherub Choir these past few months. She has been faithful and dedicated to the work. With the assistance of Mrs. White, the group achieved an "A" rating at the recent festival. Best of wishes, Kay, as you continue your studies at Florida State University.—LWC.

As I See It!

Inside Or Outside

Mr. Rutherford has just brought me an empty rum bottle which someone had carefully leaned against the front door to the Sanctuary. As he told me about it, he said, "That's a dirty trick." I could not help wondering, though, if the placing of the empty bottle in front of a church is as bad as taking the contents of the bottle into one's body. God's Word declares "your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you." (I Corinthians 6:19).

Good Response

The response of our people at the period of instruction for those who had signed one of the Soul-Winning Commitment Cards was good. A large group met with Dr. Bolton last Wednesday night after prayer service. Let's follow through in prayer and witness!

Lottie Moon Christmas Offering

We are happy that our Lottie Moon Christmas Offering has reached $3,464.54 This is a good response to a very worthy effort.

Goal .....	$2,500.00
Given .....	$3,464.54

LOOKING Ahead

REVIVAL PLANS

Plans are in the making for the Simultaneous Revival Crusade in our Association April 12-19.

Two important meetings are being planned in preparation for these revivals.

The first of these meetings is to be a clinic on Evangelism to be held in our church, Tuesday, February 10. There will be afternoon and evening sessions. The evening session will feature a message by Dr. Ramsey Pollard, pastor of the Broadway Baptist Church, Knoxville, Tennessee.

Then our Association is planning a great Evangelistic service at the Municipal Auditorium April 9.

Reserve these two dates!

Training Union

A study of the February calendar shows that February 16-20 is set aside as Baptist Heritage Week in our church. This is to be a church-wide week of study sponsored by the Training Union. There will be classes at 7:00 each evening for all age groups. There will also be a class for adults in the mornings. Be listening for further details.

Thanks, Training Union workers . . . for changing your officers' council meeting to allow us to go to the Leadership Conference . . . for voting to switch your February Officers' Council Meeting to Tuesday, February 24, because we are to have the Associational Brotherhood Meeting here in our church on Monday, February 23 . . . for going over 300 in attendance next Sunday night (we are, aren't you?).

Library Notes

"THE CUP OF FURY" By UPTON SINCLAIR

"I was raised in a virtual sea of liquor," writes Upton Sinclair. "First it was my father. Then no fewer than three of my uncles. Then one friend after another, all of them destroying themselves. I put before the public this tragic record of a half-century of genius, twisted and tortured by drink, and I ask that it be read with one fact always in the back of the reader's mind: Three out of four of today's college students are drinkers."

Upton Sinclair has written "The Cup of Fury" as a warning to his nation. In his book are the intimate, personal, revealing stories of men and women like Jack London, Dylan Thomas, Sinclair Lewis, O. Henry, Stephen Crane, Isadora Duncan, Maxwell Bodenheim, William Seabrook, and others—many others, friends and colleagues whose "moderate drinking" became uncontrollable alcoholism.

"The Cup of Fury" is a documented, slashing expose of the whiskey industry and its attempt to make drinking a "social grace." It is a poignant record of despair and degradation caused by drink. It is a uniquely startling and impassioned book. It is, in sum, one of the most eloquent, inspiring and unsparing works of Upton Sinclair's long and eventful literary career.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR—A Pulitzer Prize winner, Upton Sinclair is one of the most prolific of American writers with close to eighty books to his credit. Abroad, he is America's most widely-read author, with more than 1,000 translations of his works in some sixty languages.

Sinclair's literary contributions to the American scene have been as diverse in subject as could be—yet all of them have been dedicated to the genius and dignity and freedom of the American spirit. Upton Sinclair believes that his nation is threatened now by "moderate" and "social" drinking; "The Cup of Fury" is his crusading answer.

This book is in our Church Library. Also, the following books on the beverage alcohol problem:

"Alcohol and Christian Responsibility"—Clifford Earle.

"The Way of Sobriety"—Aubrey Hearn.

"Basic Information On Alcohol"—A. King.

"The Christian Case of Abstinence"—Compiled.

"I'll Cry Tomorrow"—Lillian Roth.

"I Was An Alcoholic"—G. Willis.

"Should Christians Drink?"—E. Tilson.

"Alcoholism or Abstinence"—Aubrey Hearn.

"What About Smoking?"—Aubrey Hearn.

"Alcohol Education Digest"—(Magazine).
