Brian's Lines

Sunday was a marvelous day. I hope you were here to enjoy it. The large attendance in Sunday School, the beautiful

Lord's Supper Service, the four who were baptized, the five who came for membership in our church, the excellent job done by the Middle School Choir Sunday night, the eighty who were at the middle school fellowship, the sweet, sweet spirit in our midst—all of these were ingredients in this very special Sunday.

THE FINANCIAL CHALLENGE . . . . is great, but we have the potential to meet it. I have not received the final report on January yet, but we were a little behind on our budget giving. My prayer is that every individual and every family in our church will join in the financial program of our church. If you will all give on a regular basis in a generous way, we will have all the financial resources we need to do what God is leading us to do. If you have not given yet in 1979, begin next Sunday.

BUDGET PLEDGING . . . . There are many families who have not yet responded to the challenge to pledge our 1979 budget. This week I have sent the names of those who have not yet pledged to our deacons. During the first week in February, they will be making personal contact with you. I am praying that you will respond to them and join with the hundreds of other families who have committed themselves to the Lord in 1979.

A NEW OPPORTUNITY . . . . Since I have been here I have been looking into the possibilities of a more extensive tape ministry. Ed Johnson has taken care of the planning and we are now just about ready to go. Mr. Letcher Lamkin is going to be in charge of the tape ministry and will be operating out of the library. Tapes of each week's message will be available for $2.00 with the morning message on one side and the evening message on the other side. You will place your orders

CHURCH RECEPTION FOR DALE TAYLOR

There will be a reception honoring Dale Taylor February 4 following the Evening Worship Service. You will want to come and express your love and many thanks to Dale for her 8 years of dedicated work and devotion to our children here at First Baptist Church.

NEW CHURCH TRAINING SERIES TO BEGIN FEBRUARY 4

Mr. Danny Kepner, Church Training Director, and Mr. Charles Griffin have designed a study of various denominational beliefs. The title of the series is "What Denominations Believe: A Comparative Study" and is scheduled to begin Sunday night, February 4.

The purpose of the series is to present a comprehensive study of Baptist beliefs and compare them to other denominations. Plans call for several Jewish, Catholic, Greek, Church of Christ, etc. speakers being in our church over the next few months.

This is a study which you will not want to miss. Join us next Sunday night for session one.

with Mr. Lamkin and pay at that time. You will then pick up the tapes the next Wednesday or Sunday at the church. This is a tremendous opportunity for you to share our church with others. It is also a good way to get more out of the messages by hearing them a second time through. This service will be available beginning next week. The first two sermons on John will also be available.

THIS SUNDAY . . . I'll move to chapter two in John's gospel Sunday morning and preach a message entitled, "When Jesus Goes To A Wedding." Sunday night we will have a reception in honor of Dale Taylor who has been such an important part of our church for the last eight years. I'll see you here for another exciting day. Let's go over 1400 this week.

Piland urges greater emphasis on adults in SS

(This article is from a press release by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. In the light of our priority interest in the Sunday School, we urge the congregation to read this word from Harry Piland, director of the Sunday School Department of the Sunday School Board.)

Building strong Sunday Schools requires an emphasis on reaching and teaching adults, according to Harry Piland, director of the Sunday School Board's Sunday School Department.

Piland is quick to add his belief that giving attention to adults through the Sunday School will strengthen rather than weaken ministries with other age groups.

He cited the numbers of adults and the fact that they provide the leadership and financial base in churches among his reasons for giving priority to adult Sunday School work.

When adults are reached they bring their preschoolers, children and youth with them. "When adults grow, all areas grow," he said.

He noted that during a three-year period at First Baptist Church, Houston, Tex. the average attendance of preschoolers grew from 325 to 700. During the same period, attendance of adults doubled—from 1000 to 2000.

Piland served as minister of education at the Houston church for five years prior to assuming leadership of Southern Baptist Sunday School work in 1978.

Numerically, adults comprise 68.1 percent of the population in the United States today. In Sunday School enrollment, Piland said adults make up 50 percent of the congregation in most churches and up to 80 percent of the prospects.

"The sheer weight of the numbers of adults demands our attention," Piland said.

"If we neglect this area, we neglect the major segment of the population.

Piland also noted that while "adults give most of the money and pay the bills, they should be reached because they are important as individuals. The time remaining to reach them is less and less with every passing year."

Church ministries with preschoolers, youth and adults could not exist without sufficient numbers of trained adults to work with them, Piland said. "Without adults, classes would go without teachers and the church would lose its ability to penetrate its community with mature, capable and aggressive leadership."

To give adequate attention to Sunday School work, Piland listed six needed actions. First, he said, leaders with adults must be committed and trained. Second, he urged strong emphasis on weekly workers meetings, which have great potential "for training, fellowship, planning, preparation and prayer."

Piland said churches should provide adequate space and equipment for adult Sunday School classes and departments, plan socials, retreats and conferences for them and provide funds to send some adult workers to Glorieta and Ridgecrest for training.

Finally, he advocated leading adults to minister to one another. "When class members study and discuss his word, pray together and have fun together, they come to know each other," Piland said. "The potential for loving counsel and real concern in an adult class is unlimited."
